

I have been referred for tests to investigate possible cancer - what does this mean for me?

Day one

You are referred to hospital on a two week referral to investigate symptoms to rule out cancer. An appointment may be made for you by your GP at this time.

Day one to 14

You will be contacted by the hospital either for a phone discussion or an appointment for further tests by day 14

Please make sure you attend the first available appointment or let the team know if you can't attend.

Day 14 to 28

You will receive the outcome of your tests and advised on next steps. This could include:

- no cancer found, discharged
- no cancer found but if symptoms or concerns persist go back to your GP
- cancer has been diagnosed and treatment options will be discussed with you.

If you have not heard by day 10 please call your hospital/service for an update:
